

Some shortcuts cut your life short.

Always cross tracks at designated pedestrian crossings. You may think you can beat a train when crossing somewhere else, but trains are always moving faster than they appear. And because of its speed and size, a train can't stop in time to avoid an accident—even if the engineer sees you on the tracks. Stay off and stay far away from the tracks.

UnionPacificCares.com

U.P. CARES

